Overview

The College of Pharmacy at Al-Ain University was established in the academic year 2006 -2007. It started with a modern approach in management, syllabi, structure, and ambitions toward better education and research. And, it consists of two departments; the Pharmaceutical Sciences Department and the Clinical Pharmacy Department.

The College provides a solid foundation in core pharmacy courses, by offering the Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy Program, which includes the basic medical, pharmaceutical and clinical sciences in addition to the advanced professional and training practices.

Furthermore, the Master of Science in Clinical Pharmacy program is designed to integrate advanced didactic courses with case application exercises, advanced clinical clerkship experiences, and a research project.

To optimize the practical part of the curriculum, the college possesses a large number of facilities; including laboratories with highly advanced equipment.

The College of Pharmacy granted an international certification by the ACPE (Accreditation Council of Pharmacy Education) in the United States, To be the first university in the UAE who obtains this certification, which will enhance the quality and the standards of our education process.
